

A photograph of a forest fire. In the foreground, there are bright orange and yellow flames consuming dry brush and small trees. In the background, tall, thin trees stand amidst a thick layer of white and grey smoke that fills the air, partially obscuring the sky. The overall scene is one of a large-scale forest fire.

Humareda proveniente de los incendios forestales en Cuba

afecta la calidad del aire en
República Dominicana

Hoy, nuestros sensores de calidad del aire registran concentraciones medianamente altas de material particulado en el oriente del país.

